

Local Airman Brings Disabled Globemaster Down Safely

By Leonard Randolph

AN EAST Stroudsburg airman last night safely brought down his Military Air Transport Service C-124 Globemaster at Boston's Logan International Airport with one of its four engines shut down and another in trouble.

He was Air Force Lt. Kenneth L. Munch. Airport officials said Munch and his crew kept the plane in the air for two hours even though it was badly disabled.

The aircraft carried a crew of six and was loaded with cargo. It had no passengers. There was no fire. No one was hurt.

This was the third time in six weeks that Munch has been commander of a craft which developed serious trouble. In each case he has supervised an emergency landing.

Munch reported last night that engine trouble developed on the mammoth transport when it was "about 250 miles off the Atlantic coast." The craft was on a flight from Jakes Field, the Azores, to Dover, Del. Air Force Base, its home station.

The Number 3 right inboard engine on the plane failed, Munch said. Its propeller was "feathered"—put out of working order, deliberately, to avoid fire.

Almost simultaneously the Number 2 engine—on the left inboard side—began to run rough. The crew kept the prop turning on that one, however.

Munch said the plane was able to maintain its 8,000-foot altitude during the two hours it was disabled.

The crew radioed to the ground that the plane was in trouble. One Coast Guard and two Air Force amphibious planes answered the alert.

The three planes escorted the crippled Globemaster to Logan. They met the craft 30 miles off Nantucket.

As crewmen struggled to keep the plane aloft, they calmly "rehearsed" ditching procedures.

At Logan Airport ground crews stood by, tensely, waiting for the transport to come in. Emergency vehicles, including fire engines and crash trucks, were spotted along the runway.

At 3:50 the radio message

that the transport was "coming in" was relayed. Five minutes later Munch and his crew members brought the giant plane down to the ground.

Its wheels touched, perfectly. None of the trouble-shooting ground crews or their equipment were needed.

Minutes later, Munch and the other five men in the crew scrambled safely to the ground.

One of the first things Munch did, after making a preliminary report on the incident, was to place a telephone call to his parents. They are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Munch, 73 Agamink St., East Stroudsburg.

His father said Munch sounded "fine" and that "the only reason he called was so his mother wouldn't worry." His younger brother, Mike, 16, said he "kidded him when he called. I asked him if he had fun. Then I told him he ought to be getting sort of used to this by now. He's been flying more planes with two engines than he has four."

The other two major incidents in which Munch has been involved with crippled planes occurred recently.

Over Goose Bay, Labrador, the inverters on a C-124 Globemaster went out. The crew brought that one down safely. No one was hurt.

More recently, over France, the C-124 Munch was commanding lost two of its four engines. Both had to be feathered. Again the plane was brought in safely. Again, no one was hurt.

Munch is a 1951 graduate of East Stroudsburg High School. He received his Air Force training at Enid, Okla. He is now stationed permanently at Dover, Del.

His brother's troubles during recent weeks have had no noticeable effect on young Mike Munch. At 14 he's still just as wild about flying as ever.

Last night Mike said he wants to be a pilot more than anything else. And he hopes it will work out that way.

Mike said he had talked quite a bit with his brother about his desire to become a pilot. "Sure he likes the idea," he said. Had trouble with his own planes tempered his enthusiasm for his brother's goal? Mike said it didn't.

"They train you for things like this," the boy said.

Kenneth's mother began to catch up on details of what had happened when she arrived home from work at 10 p.m.

"It's always a little amazing to a mother when she has a son that young who's doing something like this," she said. Munch is 25.

But, by now, the Munch family has grown accustomed to the possible hazards in flying, just as people have to grow used to all hazards in life.

"Once before," Mrs. Munch said, "when they had to feather a prop on one of the engines, one of the men said to Kenny: What're we going to do?"

"And Kenny said: Here, have a cigarette," she said.

Asian-African Bloc Gets Russia's Offer Of Aid

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Soviet Union offered all Asian and African nations economic aid today in a new offensive calculated to drive out Western imperialism.

The Kremlin coupled the offer with a hint that African and Asian countries should nationalize Western-operated businesses and exploit their profits as Egypt has done with the Suez Canal.

The Soviet offer was unfolded in the nongovernmental African-

Asian People's Conference that opened yesterday with Communist-type slogans and attacks on what it called Western imperialism.

Qualified Offer

Posing as big brother to all underdeveloped countries, a Soviet spokesman promised money without strings attached in the form of loans or outright aid plus technicians and economists to help the African and Asian nations.

But he qualified the offer thus: "We are ready to help you as a brother helps a brother. Tell us what you need and we will help you and send, according to our economic possibilities, money in the form of loans or aid."

In one breath the spokesman said "we do not ask you to join any blocs or change governments or change internal or foreign policies."

But he followed that statement with the suggestion that one of the best methods for underdeveloped countries to build their economies was to nationalize their industries and use the profits for industrial expansion.

He cited Egypt's nationalization of the Suez Canal Co. in July 1956 and Indonesia's current takeover of Dutch enterprises as a sample of what he meant.

"Effective Policy"

Such a course had worked in the Soviet Union and other Communist countries, he said.

"This was a most rapid and effective policy and the least painful to the population," he said.

The suggested nationalization could strike at Western oil projects and vast oil potentialities in the African continent and southern Asia. France's explorations to develop Sahara Desert oil fields are a prime example.

The Kremlin's spokesman was Apushavan Arzumanyan Agafonov, director of the Soviet Institute of World Economy and International Relations at the Soviet Academy of Sciences. He is a member of the Soviet-Asian Solidarity Committee.

His speech brought cheers and hearty applause from the 400 delegates from 42 countries or dependent areas. None of the delegates is supposed to be representing governments, although government officials are here as party leaders from some countries.

Exiles, Fugitives

Many of the delegates are left exiles, outcasts or fugitives from their own countries. Japan's 45-member delegation, the largest, is frowned on by its government at home.

The Communist delegations from the Soviet Union and East European countries are here nominally as observers but certainly with the approval of their governments. Soviet President Klement Voroshilov cabled solidarity greetings to the conference during the day.

The statement of the Soviet delegation, led by Shafar R. Rashidov, a vice president of the Supreme Soviet Presidium, has put the Soviet Union in a position of confidence leadership.

Agafonov coupled the Soviet aid offer with familiar attacks on the West, especially the United States, as oppressors of underdeveloped countries.

150 Million Education Aid Plan Hinted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—The administration's aid-to-education program today was reported to propose more than 150 million dollars for 1958-59 to expand and improve the teaching of science and mathematics.

The program would involve both the National Science Foundation and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which includes the Office of Education.

The Science Foundation would receive considerably more than 50 million dollars in the first year, it was reported, to expand its present efforts to promote the teaching of science and matter at all levels.

New Programs

The Welfare Department would start several new programs. Expanded and improved teaching of science and math in high schools, at a cost of about 100 million dollars the first year; provide federal scholarships at a cost of 8 to 10 million dollars the first year for talented high school students who could not otherwise go to college; finance federal fellowships in graduate schools and aid expansion of graduate schools; help the states to provide more and better testing and counseling of high school pupils; and promote foreign language teaching.

Officials said the basic purpose of the combination program is to bolster the educational effort in relation to current national security needs and to help meet Russia's scientific advances.

Given Priority

It would take priority over the previously proposed school construction program for which a first-year appropriation of 45 million dollars was asked last January.

The officials said it was decided to propose a direct federal aid program instead of some system of special income tax exemptions because studies indicated any tax exemption type of program would be more costly to the government.

They pointed out that the scholarship program would involve only about 5 per cent of the proposed first-year cost.

Diplomatic Corps Dean To Retire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—Ambassador Wilhelm Muntze de Morgenstjerne of Norway, 70-year-old dean of Washington's diplomatic corps, paid a farewell visit to the White House today and offered this advice to free people everywhere: "Never lose faith in the United States as a leader of the free world."

For those worried about Russia's high-flying Sputniks and missiles, he expressed firm confidence that American scientists would overcome any setback in the race with the Soviets.

"I don't think the United States is going to fail the free world—just wait and see," he said.

Morgenstjerne is winding up a 46-year diplomatic career within a few days amid a shower of farewell receptions, dinners and good wishes from friends and admirers.

School Aid Essential, Leader Tells Teachers

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27 (AP)—Gov. Leader declared tonight that government aid to education "is just as essential to the nation's security as a stepped-up missile program."

"Not only have we fallen behind in some sectors of our defense effort, but we have been getting weaker and weaker in our basic ability to make a defense effort," Leader told the 105th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn.

"The fact is," he added, "that we must reproduce within the next decade or so our higher education plant of today, one that required more than 300 years to build."

Only Answer

"Government aid to these institutions of higher learning is the only answer if we are to avoid this unbelievable waste of human resources in a time of national crisis," the governor said.

His address capped second day activities at the convention. During the day Harold J. Koch, of Hazleton, was confirmed as the PSEA president-elect to succeed Kermit M. Stover, Harrisburg, who will become vice president.

At an afternoon business session the PSEA adopted a slate of resolutions covering teacher problems.

The teachers paid heed in one resolution to current proposals that the school program be modified because of recent Russian advances in science, but noted: "It is imperative that we avoid crash decisions."

The recommendation said that any plans to change programs or lengthen either the school day or school year should be made "only after due consideration is given to maintaining the unique feature of our American system of education which is the development of all the potentials of the individual."

Higher Salaries

One proposal urged establishment of teacher pay scales ranging from a beginning annual salary of $5,000 to a minimum of $11,500 after 15 years for teachers with masters' degrees.

Another proposal called not only for broadening of Gov. Leader's 100-member committee to study the state's education system to include classroom teachers, but recommended that classroom teachers be named to any committee or commission studying education.

The 90 delegates to the convention shouted down a proposal to eliminate a resolution boosting federal aid to education. The delegates passed the proposal intact.

Earlier, educators told the convention that any system of merit pay increases for school teachers would have to be worked out at the local level.

"We wouldn't want to see a state merit increase program initiated," declared Dr. B. Anton Hess, principal of the Conestoga High School, Berwyn.

Local Problem

He said the problem is a local one because conditions under which merit systems would work or fail vary from school district to district.

His stand was backed up by Dan J. Skala, principal of Lawrence Park High School, Erie County, and former president of the PSEA.

Both the PSEA and the National Education Assn. have come out against merit increases on grounds such programs would upset efforts to secure higher pay scales for teachers generally.

Leader told the convention in his address that the nation is only as strong "as its capacity to produce creative, skilled, intelligent people."

Other resolutions adopted by the convention:

Demand that school employees be paid their salaries when due with the Public Instruction Dept. penalizing districts that fail to meet payrolls.

Disapproved any "hasty adoption of merit rating" as a means of improving teaching.

Urged extension of the voting franchise to 18-year-olds.

Requested boosted appropriations to state teacher colleges.

Called for elimination of assignment of teachers to non-professional tasks.

Boosted formation of future teacher clubs across the state.

Court Stays Integration Of Schools In Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 27 (AP)—The 5th U.S. District Court of Appeals at New Orleans handed Dallas a breathing spell today by ruling that it need not integrate its public schools Jan. 27. This overruled a U.S. District Court order in Dallas setting that date.

Dallas, until today's ruling, was the next big city scheduled under federal court orders to mix white and Negro pupils in classes.

On the street corners, in restaurants, in neighborhood gatherings, and in back-of-the-chairs, the big question had been: "Will Dallas be another Little Rock?"

Dallas is an Old South city, and many of its residents follow Old South ways in Negro-white relationships. A wave of Northerners swept into the city after World War II, but the ratio remains strongly Southern in the city of 625,000 population.

Signs of Tolerance

Its citizens have shown signs of tolerance.

No one could safely predict whether violence would have erupted had the schools been integrated at midterms as ordered. Conversations indicated many feared it would.

The decision in September ordering integration came from U.S.

Dist. Judge William H. Atwell, 88, who said he ruled reluctantly. Twice before that he issued decisions saying Dallas need not integrate, and was overruled each time.

The Appeals Court decision said Dallas school authorities should be accorded a reasonable further opportunity to meet their primary responsibility of integration.

Against the plea of the school board that it needs more time, the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has replied that the board has had two years in which to begin integration since the original suit was filed Feb. 5, 1955.

Sought Admission

On that date, 28 Negro children sought admission to a high school, a junior high and six elementary schools.

The school board said that had the Jan. 27 date been confirmed, as many as 20 to 25 schools would have been involved immediately.

Dr. Edwin L. Rippy, board president, said earlier that eventually about half of Dallas' 141 schools will have mixed classes when integration comes.

The school system has 106,848 pupils, of which 18,807 are Negro, latest figures show.

Gas Explosion Traps Workers 500 Feet Down

AMONATE, Va., Saturday, Dec. 28 (AP)—A rescue worker reported early today 14 of the 21 miners trapped in a coal mine under the Virginia-West Virginia border had been found alive.

The men were found in the joy loading section of the mine, according to William Fullerton, special assistant to the president of Pocahontas Fuel Co., operators of the mine.

A rumbling explosion, apparently produced by gas, had trapped the men some 500 feet underground late yesterday. Fullerton said two work crews, two motor men and one fireboss were in the group.

The blast occurred about 1 1/2 miles from the mine entry shaft on the Virginia side of the border. The shaft is about 500 feet deep.

Until the rescue workers report all contact with the men had been cut off.

West Virginia state police earlier reported 20 to 25 persons were killed in the explosion.

250 At Work

About 250 men were working in the mine at the time of the explosion, about 6:30 p.m., including supervisory personnel. The mine employs about 800 persons.

James Crawford, a joy loader operator, working about four miles from the blast site, said the explosion occurred in the section farthest away from the mine shaft. He said he heard a noise like a slate fall and then all electricity in the mine went off.

There was some dust where he was working, Crawford said, but he was able to get from the mine safely.

State and federal mine officials rate the mine as gaseous. The shift working in the mine at the time of the explosion went on at 4 p.m.

Aside from the federal, state and mine teams, rescue crews from Berwind and McComas in West Virginia were attempting to reach the trapped miners.

Near Bishop, Va.

It was only about three miles away at Bishop, Va., where 37 men died Feb. 4 when an underground explosion occurred in another mine. Both the Bishop mine and the mine where today's explosion occurred — the monate colliers — are owned by Pocahontas Fuel Co.

The arrangements at both mines are similar. The shaft entrances are on the Virginia side of the border while the tips and most of the mines themselves are in West Virginia.

The shaft entrance of the Amonte mine is 580 feet deep. The men believed trapped were working at about 583 feet.

Mrs. E. P. McGlothlin, wife of the Tazewell County, Va., sheriff said all law enforcement officers had been summoned to the Amonte area about 9 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Gray, wife of a mine foreman, said her husband had worked the day shift and had been called back to the mine at 7 p.m. She said she did not know how many men would ordinarily be working in the mine at 6:30 p.m.

Sheriff Boyd Supe of McDowell County, W. Va., said his office was notified of the explosion at 7:30 p.m. He said police at Amonte told him "two or three sections had blown up."

A resident of Pasadena, California, his musical experience is highlighted by solo work with both the Roger Wagner and the Robert Schuman chorales; he has recorded for Capitol records; he was tenor soloist with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians from 1951 to 1957. Currently he is working with Miss Patti

Page, in "The Big Record". His most outstanding recent work was in a musical spectacular on television with the Chicago Symphony under Arthur Fiedler, a program heard over National hook-up. In addition to these connections, Mr. Sands has appeared throughout America in opera and operetta, as well as in musical comedy. His last appearance in East Stroudsburg Methodist Church was on the occasion of the Mother's Day evening service.

Tomorrow's program will encompass the best in Christmas music presented by each of the choirs in the past season. The program begins with a spirit of devotion as the Chorus Choir sings "A Tiny Town is Bethlehem" and climaxes with "The Christmas Roundelay" in which five choirs join.

The morning worship at 11 a.m. will present the Crusader's Choir singing "Once in Royal David's City." The Chancel Choir will sing the famed "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton will preach on the theme, "Christmas Is Forever." Flowers are being presented by Mrs. Clarence Treible in memory of her husband. It came from little congregations, and great religious assemblies, from plain pastors, and high

When he stops being cute

This is his very first New Year. He's celebrating it in his own talented fashion, just being cute. Last year thousands of boys and girls were arrested as juvenile delinquents. They had all been cute—once!

But did they have the priceless example of active Christian parents? Were they given moral and spiritual training in the Church? Did they grow up in a Christian atmosphere?

This young fellow can't be absolutely sure that the New Year is worth celebrating. His future is in the hands of his parents. But he's smiling because of his confidence in them.

During this New Year their faith in God, and the sincerity of their relationship with the Church will begin to determine just what their son is going to be when he stops being cute.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Tax Reform Scheduled

Starting with the new year, Pennsylvania will begin to reap the benefits of a tax reform that is startlingly unique in the United States. Almost alone among the states, Pennsylvania actually is reducing taxes in 1958.

The reforms were hammered out in two recent sessions of the State Legislature and it took a long and bitter fight to determine the shape of our new tax pattern. Unfortunate as that fight was, the results have been beneficial.

Most states either are increasing taxes or fighting to avoid increases. Some face the certainty that in the near future they will have to get more tax revenues to fulfill their obligations.

But in Pennsylvania we are abolishing taxes which have held us back industrially. They have constituted a sort of invisible blockade against new industry coming into the state and we felt their effects in lost opportunities for employment.

We could ill afford to lose such economic opportunities. We've needed new jobs for years in the many areas of Pennsylvania where labor surpluses have developed due to declining employment in older industries. Pennsylvania, traditionally one of the top industrial states, has been slipping.

It was no small accomplishment of the state government that now makes it possible for Pennsylvania to bid for new industry and seek to regain its rightful place in the industrial world.

And it comes at an appropriate time, when the long post-war boom is slowing and when costs of production (including tax costs) are of greatest importance to manufacturers.

Starting Jan. 1, no corporation engaged in manufacturing will have to pay the capital stock tax which has been in effect (except for a few years) for the past 22 years.

Our new pattern was developed with cooperation of both political parties and approval by representatives of both management and labor. We have a state system now which allots to both industry and people their fair shares of the cost of government, through such taxes as those on corporate net income and sales.

More Churchgoers

As year-end statistics begin to make their appearance in business and industry, it is good to learn that the churches of this nation also have a satisfactory report to submit for 1957.

The National Council of Churches says the number of church members in the United States passed the 100,000,000 mark this year for the first time in history. It reports 100,162,500 persons affiliated with organized congregations. In 1956 the total was 97,842,000.

A gain of 2.8 per cent has occurred in 12 months. This compares with a population increase in the same period of only 1.8 per cent.

Currently, 61 per cent of Americans belong to churches. The percentage has never been that high before. A century ago, it was down to 20 per cent.

There may be some basis for calling Americans materialistic; but so long as the nation shows an increasing number of churchgoers we can hope the spiritual content of our lives will not drain away.

Rest For Clergymen

Some interesting figures emerged from a recent church conference. A poll of ministers gathered there showed that these servants of God put in an average of 60 hours a week on varied tasks, including preparation and delivery of sermons, teaching activities and visits to sick and indigent parishioners.

Now while a minister may receive his calling from on high, his actual employer is the congregation, a group of individuals accustomed to toiling the usual 40-hour, five-days-a-week stint.

Yet a poll of laymen at the same convention came up with the somewhat surprising view that they would prefer to have their ministers work — on the average — a 64-hour week.

Th ministers, of course, are in no position to bargain collectively on this issue of the work-week.

However, one can easily imagine texts of future sermons which lay heavy emphasis on the Golden Rule, with a salient excerpt from the Book of Genesis, perhaps. The verse which tells us that even the most productive Worker of all took a rest—on the seventh day.

The Pennsylvania Story

Government Stops

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Rundown on Capitol Hill:

Dead-Beat—Newsmen working the Capitol Hill beat this week have found it to be truly a "dead beat" with activity at a standstill. Only echoes heard along Capitol Hill corridors have been footsteps of a caretaker force of Capitol Hill police. . . . It can be said that in actuality this week Pennsylvania's state government ground to a virtual halt—aside from watchdogging essential services, which have been pretty well slurred.

"Dear Harry"—In recent weeks the literary exchanges between Republican elected State Auditor General Charles C. Smith and Democratic-appointed Secretary of Welfare Harry Shapiro have been touchy, formal affairs—although each knows the other well. . . . In fact both are from Philadelphia.

Generally correspondence between the two has been addressed "Dear Mr. Smith" or "Dear Mr. Shapiro". . . . But the other day some gears must have slipped in Smith's office, for after the debate between the two as to who should dole out more than $1 million due 87 state aided hospitals in surplus or bonus from the past biennium, in came a letter addressed to Shapiro from Charlie Smith as "Dear Harry". . . . Quipped a Shapiro aide: "Next thing you know, we'll be having a love feast!" (Not very probable).

Santa Claus—In Reverse—Indications are at this point that Santa Claus overlooked Pennsylvania's employees when he was passing out gifts this week—although it can be said to have been through no fault of his own.

Chances are good that as of the first of the year Pennsylvania's employees will be paying an increased unemployment compensation rate—22 per cent instead of the present 1.5 per cent.

Reason for this is that if the State Unemployment Compensation Fund goes below $350 million as of December 31, the rate for the new year automatically increases. . . . Pennsylvania's jobless pay program is supported by contributions from Keystone State employers. . . . As of this week the fund stood several hairs under the $350-million-mark. . . . January 1 officially tells the tale.

Education Conference—Few around Capitol Hill dispute the fact that the Leader Administration has done much to point up Pennsylvania's lagging educational needs. . . . For the most part the lone dissenters in this respect will be found in Republican legislative ranks where even there privately it is admitted that the Governor has stolen a march from under their very eyes.

The upcoming (January 28 and 29) conference of some 100 top representatives in the field of education called by the Governor has underscored the point. . . . Added to this has been Mr. Leader's continual drumming on the college scholarship program—which has picked up tremendous fuel since the advent of the Sputniks.

Pro-Labor Bending—An indication of just how far the Leader Administration is bending over backward in its pro-labor courtship can be found in the agreement recently negotiated between the State Department of Highways and the Pennsylvania State Employees Council.

The unique agreement—first of its kind—provides for a "grievance procedure" between employees of the department and the department—in effect via union channels. . . . Actually the move is a sequel to the Governor's earlier announced policy of giving state employees the right to organize and work out a grievance procedure.

The move has generally been regarded as a bold bid for all-out labor support in anticipation of next year's gubernatorial-senatorial contests. . . . with Governor Leader in the forefront on the senatorial race.

You're Telling Me

In an effort to raise money painlessly, Moscow has decided to run a state lottery. It'll be a game of chance for every Red except the government, which plans to glom onto 60 per cent of the take.

Total prize money in the Russian's gambol for gamblers will amount to 398 million rubles. Government gets 602 million. As usual, the Kremlin Bear gets the lion's share.

There's A Tide In The Affairs Of Men

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Lots Of Folks

The "Population Bulletin" says that in four years, the human population of the Earth has increased by about 172,000,000 which is equal to the population of the United States. That is a heap of folks, born all over and they all have to be housed and clothed and fed, each to his likes and his tastes. And each grows up thinking well of himself and his ancestry and his country as close to perfect and looking down his nose at the rest of the human race for not being like him.

Man grew slowly until the 17th Century. Then he got all excited and between 1850 and 1950, the rate of increase became so rapid that it doubled itself. The reason for the increase is the drop in the death rate. Medicine has overcome the killing effects of disease and even old age now comes later than it used to.

A man in his 60's is today in his late middle age; two generations ago, he was a very old man. Even war, which takes more lives in this century than ever before, cannot overcome the life-saving effect of medicine, public health, biochemistry and chemistry. We may not know how to live contentedly, at peace with ourselves, but we have learned how to postpone death.

There can be little question but that birth control, planned parenthood and late marriages are keeping the birth rate down in many parts of the world. Japan, for instance, which suffers direly from overpopulation, now has a lower birth rate. That country now permits abortions and sterilization for economic and social reasons.

It will make an enormous difference in Japan's politics when that country, with only 20 per cent of its land arable, is no longer forced to import so much food and raw materials and to support people. The most competent people in Asia, the Japanese have faced the fact that their land is only 20 per cent arable.

Puerto Rico's birth rate has declined, but that may be due to a most unusual phenomenon, namely that since 1946, huge numbers of Puerto Ricans, in their most reproductive years, have migrated to the United States where they settle principally in large cities like New York and are slowly becoming accustomed to the American pattern of life.

This migration has been so large that nearly one-third of the population of the Borough of Manhattan which is the heart of New York City is of Puerto Rican origin. Eventually, so large a Spanish-cultured people must alter the social and political patterns of this city.

Increasing population in poor countries are explosive. Poverty produces discontent and therefore political problems. In countries of limited opportunities, the larger the population, the fewer the opportunities and the more dangerous the political situation. This is now only too apparent in Asiatic areas, such as Indonesia, where so-called anti-colonialism, nurtured in the United States, is only serving Soviet imperialism.

As nations continue to be in a state of antagonism, even if not at war, there is a narrower distribution of surplus food supplies. The means of exchange being disturbed, there are areas, like the United States, where the surpluses are so large that they are stockpiled or destroyed and other areas which find no way of adequately feeding themselves.

The only free exchange that ever functioned successfully over a period of years is a commercial exchange and this is becoming not easier but more difficult because of currency as well as political problems which now face all nations, including the United States.

"Population Bulletin" quotes Dr. Kingsley Davis, Professor of Sociology and Social Institutions at the University of California, to this effect:

"This explosive human multiplication unanticipated and un-exemplified in history, clearly cannot continue indefinitely. It would give us nearly 6,000,000,000 by the end of this century and nearly 13,000,000,000 by the year 2050. How this growth is eventually stopped, and when, will play a tremendous role in human destiny."

But suppose it is not stopped at all? Suppose, in fact, his figures turn out to be minimal, what then? We may reach the point of being unable to feed the human race adequately anywhere, just as in some parts of China and India, overpopulation means hunger in apparently rich agricultural areas.

All this is something to think about. But can we do anything about it? I doubt it very much. Here is another unsolvable problem.

Behind The Scenes

In Hollywood

By Harrison Carroll

Hollywood—With the whole town raving about Diane Varsi's performance in "Peyton Place," Twentieth Century-Fox lost no time in upping that $200-a-week pay check.

Diane tells me the studio gave her a $2,000 bonus and raised her salary to $500 a week. She says she was so excited and nervous that she had to get up in the middle of the show and go outside. "I just couldn't breathe," she confesses.

There was no significance to her attending the premiere with her estranged husband, James Dickson, declares Diane. "I haven't seen an attorney yet, but there has been no reconciliation."

If you can't lick it, join it, argues Ray Anthony. Ray, a big name in music and, of course, the husband of Mamie Van Doren, is revamping his band to feature rock 'n' roll.

I can just hear the howls from some quarters, but Ray says the kids aren't dancing to anything but rock 'n' roll, or slow, dreamy stuff, and if that's what they insist on, he is going to give it to them.

The test comes in February when Ray and the boys go on a tour of 28 one-nighters.

More news about Ray. He and a group of associates plan to build a huge ballroom in the San Fernando valley. They will serve only soft drinks and will go after the teenage trade. In search of a site, they looked at one piece of property belonging to Mae West. She wanted $750,000 for it.

Pilar Palette, who just got back from a month's visit with husband John Wayne on "The Townsend Harris Story" location in Japan, says she will celebrate New Year's with the John Fords in Honolulu. She is taking the baby, Aissa, and will wait for John, who finishes his role at the end of January.

Jayne Mansfield's only regret about the trip to the Orient with Bob Hope's troupe was not being with her daughter at Christmas.

Tax Cut Indicated

Washington, Dec. 26—It is still a good bet there will be a tax cut next year.

That is the considered opinion of none other than Rep. Wilbur Mills, new chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which originates all tax legislation.

Despite those recurring pessimistic pronouncements to the contrary, the able Arkansas man not only believes there is a real possibility of reducing taxes, but has an ingenious plan all figured out to do that.

Further, he has potent backing for it. Both Speaker Sam Rayburn, Tex., and House Democratic Leader John McCormack, Mass., have given him the green light.

Mills describes his resourceful plan as "tax revision."

Reason for this particular designation, rather than "tax reduction," is that under his proposal taxes would be cut without appreciably slashing the government's revenue.

This remarkable feat would be accomplished by the following double-barreled "tax revision":

Abolish the so-called "dividend exemption" enacted by the Republican-controlled Congress in 1954. Proposed by Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, this measure made the first $50 in dividends taxfree, and exempted from taxes 4 per cent of all other dividends. This measure has "cost" the government an estimated $750,000,000 a year in income.

Increase the personal tax exemption from $600 to $700. This long-advocated Democratic proposal would mean an annual "loss" in Treasury revenue of $900,000,000 to the extent of such a tax cut. If it applies only to "heads of families," the amount will be much less than if all taxpayers are entitled to it.

This dexterous "tax revision" could have powerful "voter appeal" in Congress next year—with all members of the House and one-third of the Senate up for re-election.

Setting the Stage—The campaign ammunition factor is unquestionably an important consideration in the backstage deliberations on this astute plan. Representative Mills is advocating it strictly on economic grounds, as follows:

Mirror of Time

—by C. H. WESTBROOK

10 Years Ago

Zion—Zion services will be in charge of young people's group. The pastor, Rev. Frank H. Blatt and Mrs. Emmett Fabel are directing.

Year-End Party—A year-end meeting of the Brotherhood of First Presby. Church will be held at Wyckoff Recreation Rooms. Reservations are being made with Blake F. Hagerty, sec'y.

Golden Wedding—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parker will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary tomorrow with an Open House for friends. Dames of Malta will direct reception of those who attend.

Home—Elizabeth I. Thomas, a sophomore at Syracuse Univ., is spending the week-end with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Francis C. Thomas.

20 Years Ago

Music—Miss Elizabeth Small, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Small, E. S., and Miss Frances Christine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Christine, were guest soloists at Christmas musicale in Trinity Lutheran Church, Bengor.

Three Birthdays—A party was held last evening at home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley, Arlington Heights, to celebrate Christmas and the birthdays of Mr. Pooley, Miss Esther Walters and Miss Lila Mae Goucher.

Yule Party—The Faithful Workers of Zion Church will hold annual Yule Party at the home of Mrs. Warren Hontz.

Anniversary—Prof. and Mrs. Grant Bartholomew celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary and third birthday of their son, Bruce, on Christmas Day.

Business leaders and government authorities are agreed that stimulating buying power is urgently desirable in 1958, particularly in the first six months. A direct and effective method of doing that is a general cut in personal taxes.

The best way to accomplish this, contends Mills, is to boost the individual exemption.

At the same time, the forceful 48-year-old Arkansas is firmly against cutting government income. He stresses that every dollar will be needed for increased military spending, due to the costly missile programs and other emergency measures resulting from Russia's menacing "sputnik" developments.

To Mills the solution to this problem, of how to devise a general tax cut to stimulate the national economy while avoiding lopping off a big slice of the Treasury's much-needed revenue, is to do away with the "dividend exemption."

The bulk of its beneficiaries, Mills holds, are in the "well-to-do brackets." The elimination of the dividend deduction would, on the whole, not be a hardship to them. Further, this "loss" to them would be varying offset by the $100 additional personal exemption.

That would apply to all taxpayers, points out Mills, and thus would give business a hefty shot in the arm at a period when it would do the most good.

You will start hearing a lot about this plan when the Ways and Means Committee's scheduled "tax revision" meetings get underway on January 7. Mills will preside over these proceedings, and he has been preparing for them for several months.

Significantly indicative of this "homework" are two things:

(1) The private discussions Mills has had with Speaker Rayburn, Floor Leader McCormack and other influential House chiefs on his ingenious proposal; (2) a memorandum sent to all Ways and Means Committee members explaining the purpose of the forthcoming hearings.

This backstage "prep sheet" is very revealing. Following are its highlights: "The hearings will be conducted for the purpose of re-examining the basic policies underlying our tax laws. . . . The main volume of individual income taxes comes from the low and middle income groups. These groups, because they are primarily recipients of earned income, cannot avail themselves of preferential rates and differentials which are available to many recipients of other types of income."

"This has resulted in the narrowing of the dollar base of our tax system through exceptions and differentials to the point where the rate schedules no longer are meaningful. "It is hoped that some form of relief from these burdens can be achieved for the low income taxpayer. Among the tax provisions to be considered will be: personal tax exemptions; treatment of business expenses; treatment of retired income and annuities, tax problems of farmers; treatment of the physically handicapped; depreciation methods; treatment of natural resources; exemption of dividends; treatment of capital gains and losses; treatment of small and new business; the policy of estate and gift taxes."

Also scheduled for scrutiny by the Committee is that widely controversial proposal by the Internal Revenue Service to require detailed accounting of expense funds. Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson will be the first witness at these significant hearings. Note: More than 1,000 tax-cutting bills of one kind or another are pending before the Committee.

Smith Has Record For Travel

By Central Press

Washington — James H. Smith Jr., the Colorado rancher recently confirmed as new head of the foreign aid program, has a decided international background. Questioning at a hearing on his appointment by the Senate foreign relations committee disclosed that he has participated in negotiations and discussions with 32 different foreign governments and has crossed "innumerable" international boundaries.

A former airline official, Smith conducted many of his global activities while a consultant for the State Department. In addition, he has been an assistant to the Navy secretary under the Democratic Truman administration and an assistant Navy secretary under the GOP Eisenhower regime.

As an airline official, he did work similar to the Point Four program of technical aid to underdeveloped countries. He explained that his airline company trained citizens of other countries so that they could do "rather highly skilled mechanical work on our aircraft."

In addition, he disclosed, the firm tried to stimulate trade and new activities in the countries to which it flew as a means of building up air traffic for itself.

Two more top officials reportedly are planning to make their exit soon from the Eisenhower administration. According to reports circulating in the capital, both Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles and Under Secretary of State Christian Herter will resign.

In both cases, it is said, the men are disappointed that they have not been promoted to the Cabinet level and find difficulty in getting along with their superiors.

Quarles wanted to become Defense secretary when Charles E. Wilson resigned. But President Eisenhower bypassed him and selected Neil H. McElroy for the job.

Now, Quarles, as the No. 2 man in the Defense Department, is hearing the brunt of congressional criticism of the U. S. lag in the missile race. Friends say he will quit within a few weeks.

Herter reportedly was brought into the State department with the understanding that he was being groomed to succeed Secretary John Foster Dulles and could step into the Cabinet post shortly.

However, Dulles shows no sign of being ready to bow out and the latest rumors are that he and Herter aren't getting along at all.

So, it is said, the former Massachusetts governor also is ready to quit.

Wildlife Feeding Program Begun By Gun Club

Land Owners Invited To Cooperate

AN EXTENSIVE winter feeding program for wildlife was inaugurated Thursday at the final meeting of the year of the Pocono-Paradise Rod and Gun Club at the Butz Run School. There was a large attendance, and a gain of 24 new members over the preceding year was reported.

The feeding program will include establishing food plots for spring planting. Any member with one-quarter to one-half acre of ground to offer for food plots may call George Niering, or the secretary, Louis Martineau.

Grounds offered the club for such purposes must meet with the approval of a committee. If approved the club will have a soil test made and if any lime is needed will furnish the lime before planting and seeding. Any other residents of Pocono or Paradise townships interested in the wildlife feeding program may become a member by calling George Niering.

Further Suggestions

In other suggestions for wildlife feeding, members were asked to cut maple trees wherever possible. The resulting young shoots are important in wildlife feeding. Also important in wildlife preservation are the brush piles which make excellent cover.

Since members of the club all enjoyed more or less successful hunting this season, they were urged to take part in the wildlife feeding program to insure continued good hunting in the years to come.

The club also discussed bow and arrow hunting, and decided to let each member decide whether to permit bow hunting on his property. "No Bow Hunting" signs will be furnished any member who wishes to close his property for such hunting.

The Pocono-Paradise Rod and Gun Club voted to sponsor three year subscriptions to the "Game News" published by the Pennsylvania Game Commission to be placed in the school libraries of Pocono Township and Paradise schools for the use of the students.

Sputnik II Seen By Geissinger

FOR THE benefit of those who thought Russia's Sputnik II had dropped to earth — it hasn't.

At least one Monroe County resident saw it last night at 5:27. He was Charles Geissinger, Mountaintown. Geissinger was backed up by the Hayden Planetarium where scientists said the satellite was definitely still going around the earth and that it would be visible last night.

Geissinger heard a report that it would be visible early last night. At 5:15 he stationed himself on the golf course at Monocock Inn, the resort which he owns and manages near Mountaintown.

At exactly 5:27, Geissinger reported, the satellite appeared in the Southwest. It traveled northeast and was visible to the naked eye for "eight to 10 seconds," Geissinger said.

city the older gunman fell asleep and Miss Mattingly persuaded the younger man to let her out. She then telephoned her parents and Washington police.

Continuing south toward North Carolina, the gunman stopped near Alberta, Va., and left Monteth locked in the trunk of his own car. They continued their flight in another car which they had forced off the road, apparently taking the occupants of this machine with them.

Monteth freed himself with a pen knife.

According to a member of the staff, Dr. Flagler asked that he not be reelected to the position at the head of the staff.

Only Christmas Baby At General Hospital Born Just One Minute Before Midnight

MONROE COUNTY General Hospital's only "Christmas Baby" was born at exactly one minute before midnight on Dec. 25.

The baby's name is Randy Scott Hill. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hill of Mount Bethel.

For the Hills the arrival of their second son was a last-minute surprise for Christmas.

The baby was "supposed to arrive between the 18th and the 22nd" Mrs. Hill said. All day Christmas Day "we kept hoping he'd come."

But then, as time wore on, the Hills gave up. They decided the baby wouldn't come until the next day.

But later that night, Mrs. Hill went into labor. And, when it was all over, "the doctor told me he had been born at 11:59 p.m."

"I don't know how to explain it. But I was so proud. We'd been hoping so much that the baby would come on Christmas Day. It just seemed like the best thing that could happen," she said.

"And besides Ricky (the Hills' 2½-year-old first son) had been saying all along he wanted a baby to come for Christmas," she said.

Mrs. Hill said her husband was "just as proud as could be."

"He said it was the finest Christmas present anyone could have," she said.

The same sentiments were reflected by young Ricky, according to his mother, Ricky hasn't had a chance to see the new baby yet.

"But he called me on the telephone tonight and he was all excited. He just can't wait until I come home with the baby," Mrs. Hill said.

That will be on Monday. December has turned out to be a month of red letter days for Mrs. Hill and her family. Her birthday is on Dec. 8. Her mother's birthday is on the 6th. She and her husband celebrate their anniversary on Dec. 18. And now Randy's birthday will be Dec. 25.

Mrs. Hill said she was thankful that the baby was a big, healthy one. He weighed 8 pounds, 8 ounces at birth and was 21½ inches long.

"And he has real coal black hair—quite a bit of it," she said.

FIVE YOUNG PEOPLE escaped injury last night when this car hit an icy spot in front of the Delaware Water Gap Fire House and overturned one and one-half times, landing on its top. Robert Miranda, 14, Portland, suffered a scratched knee. Police Chief Fred Decker identified the driver as Charles Tschernie, 17, of 334 Brookside Ave., East Stroudsburg. (Photo by Art Barnes)

Bridge Game Requires Right Moves

FEW PERSONS ever think of the work—and the danger—which goes into the building of a dam like the one near Kanab, Ut. These two photos, taken on the site of the Colorado river's storage project, give a closeup and a faraway view of work on the giant

Glen canyon dam. That workman in the picture on the left is laying plates on the high wires. The other photo shows a footbridge used by the workmen to save plenty of miles in travel. The footbridge, which was completed recently, is much safer than it looks over that chasm.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The day after the day after Christmas has its own special flavor—neither so keyed-up as Christmas nor as let-down as the day after. The bulging paper baskets have been emptied, and the refrigerator is showing bare spots.

The pile of presents under the tree is dwindling as gifts start being put to their intended use. Straightening the packages, you keep coming across empty boxes.

The children start playing with their own toys instead of trooping through the neighborhood to look at their friends' toys. There are periods, apart from mealtime, when the whole family is home at once.

There's a general sprawling feeling to the day—with feet sticking out from every chair, usually without shoes on. The musical members of the family take turns at the piano, the readers start reading the new books, and the teenagers start teaching each other the cha-cha, with unwary parents getting caught in the trap if they pass through.

By today, everybody will be getting their second wind and the merry-go-round will pick up speed, but meanwhile the tempo is relaxed, nothing terrific threatens, and there's no special need to hurry. Peace, it's wonderful!

There are exceptions, of course. The Saturday between Christmas and New Year's is a very popular time for weddings. I know of at least three for tomorrow afternoon. I imagine there was little peace in the bride's home.

And little relaxation in the homes where somebody got a first bicycle. With the rain on Thursday, yesterday was the first day they had to practice riding. The most popular procedure seems to be to have Pop running along beside to steady the bike, puffing all the way.

It probably got pretty hectic in the kitchen, too, where young homemakers to be were trying out their new toy kitchen equipment. Catchup and instant pudding powder makes a very spectacular display when beaten with a toy rotary beater.

But it was a nice day, just the same.

Doctors To Honor State's Centarians

Harrisburg—Who is a hundred?

For the eleventh consecutive year, The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania will again honor residents of Pennsylvania who reach their one hundredth birthday during the coming year, 1958. A hand-lettered, framed testimonial "in recognition of one whose life span exemplifies healthful living" will be presented to each centenarian by officers of the medical society in the county where the person lives.

Over the past ten years, the Medical Society has presented 330 such testimonials, thirty of them during 1957. Since 1948, a total of 38 centenarians in Allegheny County have received testimonials, 27 in Philadelphia, 19 in Lancaster County, 15 in Montgomery County, 11 in both Blair and Cambria Counties, and 10 in both Northampton and York Counties.

The Medical Society is seeking names and dates of birth of those residents of Pennsylvania who will have a hundredth birthday during 1958, and information should be sent to The Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania, 230 State Street, Harrisburg.

The Wyckoff Shopper

I have just returned to my desk from a visit to our toy department. A visit there would, I am sure, gladden a merchant's heart. But I am not a merchant, and I found it depressing. I hadn't realized how inevitably a thing of the past is Christmas 1957 until I glimpsed all those bare, forlorn shelves and niches... and the vacant place along the wall where Santa's throne had been during his six weeks with us.

Watching the curtailed crew dust, rearrange stock, knock down extra shelving, and draw in the rambling boundaries of Toyland to before-Christmas size, I was stricken with the awful thought that Time is running, running, as though pursued by something—but WHAT? Backing away from this chilling reality, I turned on my heel and raced upstairs to the tangles of desk and typewriter. The only NICE thing about that depleted toy stock is that a great many youngsters must have been made happy Christmas morning. What more could anyone ask?

One of the most touching anecdotes of the season was recounted on Jack Paar's "Tonight" show. It concerned the children of an army officer, who was transferred from post to post so frequently there was always a new address on Christmas Eve. A family friend finding this sad, remarked upon it sympathetically to the youngsters. "It's just too bad," she said, "that you haven't a home of your own."

One of the little boys pondered this a moment, and then replied, "Oh, we have a HOME—we just haven't a house to put it in."

Sometimes, I think, children know far more about love, family unity and the bonds that really matter than do those of us who have lived four times as long. My little girl worried that her Christmas gifts—the candlestick made at Girl Scouts, the wall plaque made in school—were not enough to give me. Yet Christmas morning I awoke to a cup of hot coffee served on a tray... and somehow it didn't matter that some of it had sloshed over onto the newly dry-cleaned quilt. Christmas night, a turkey sandwich, hard boiled eggs, brownies and coffee, were served me in the living room where I watched television, and before going to bed she insisted I take a dollar bill she had been saving for a new purse. "I want you to have it," she explained, "because you are my very best friend," and it's mine to give."

Life, I have decided, has its headaches and heartaches, its panics and frustrations, but my little girl knows more about giving than many people ever learn. Sometimes she puts me to shame.

I notice that the January Good Housekeeping magazine, sold on our Wyckoff newsstand, has an article entitled, "How to Save $1000 This Year." Are they kidding??? The coat sale now in progress at Wyckoff's is the most fabulous ever. Winter coats for every one in the family from Dad and Mom right down to the infant are so drastically cut in price it's absolutely unbelievable. Now's the time to buy, all right, all right—even if you must sell one of your family heirlooms to do it. . . . Mary Hitesman tells me that china was one of the really big sellers in housewares this Christmas. Particularly popular with our Wyckoff customers was the beautiful imported Franconia China. I have my own eye on that, but there are several styles so pleasing to me I'd have a rough time selecting. I love Mille Fleurs—a variety of pastel blossoms scattered against a white background, delicately edged in gold. But Delphine is exquisite too—two delicate shades of blue prettily blended, with a blue floral design. Both look as though they'd been in the family a long, long time—which is, to me, an invaluable added attraction.

DOUGLAS R. Schoonover is one of the nicest guys a person would ever want to meet. In fact he would qualify as a worthy contestant for any most popular award of the year.

His kindness and resourcefulness stems through personal touch in Babe Ruth baseball and just plain interest in the youth of our area.

Presently Doug is deep in basketball at East Stroudsburg High School, guiding the Cavaliers in their quest for a first division berth in the Lehigh-Northampton League.

Prior to the start of the season, effervescent Schoonover was high on his team's chances in the L-N this year. Rightfully so too.

After all he had four veterans back from the 1956-57 squad that did alright in circuit competition.

His bench, while not blessed with experienced warriors, was adequate enough to help if the occasion arose.

However, after three games the Cavaliers were seeking their first victory. Two of the losses were exhibitions—Stroudsburg and Phillipsburg—and the other setback came at the hands of Fountain Hill in Eastburg's L-N inaugural.

Things didn't go right with the Cavaliers. The expected jell of the veterans never came, although it did show signs in the second half of the Hiller tilt. But from stem to stern, Eastburg was missing something.

Schoonover felt it was desire. The potential was there, Doug believed, but the extra effort was missing. From our seat in the Eastburg-Stroudsburg interborough contest, Schoonover's observation was most true—his Cavaliers ran out of gas.

This is a most unfortunate deficit of a schoolboy ball club. It means only one thing, the boys were out of condition.

One reason could have been that the Cavaliers started too late in drills to be ready for an arch-rival foe. However, in this day and age this seems improbable when you consider boys are ready for action—unless they let the horse go before the cart.

If this wasn't enough of a problem for Schoonover, two days before its second L-N encounter with Pen Argyl, three of the regular five up and quit the team.

What was a rosy situation in late November turned into a dark day for Schoonover. All he had left was Jim Kendrick and Dale Metzgar from the last year's quintet, and four reserves that had little or no experience. Hardly an ideal situation.

But Doug, a born battler, especially when the odds are stacked against him, didn't let this manpower shortage turn his optimistic attitude into a downhearted feeling.

As he said, "we'll come up with something." He did. Schoonover brought Bill (Bones) Hillman up from the JV's to a first string varsity berth; Inserted Gene Martin, a loose-jointed senior with gambling ideas into the first five; and gave Alex Sydelnik the nod of confidence with a regular position. The trio combined hitherto untapped talents with seasoned Kendrick and Captain Metzgar.

The result: Eastburg took three minutes and gave Pen Argyl a 9-0 lead before the "new look" Cavaliers got the idea they belong together on the court. Eventually, Schoonover had Frank Gimble, John Hindman (also a refugee from the JV's) working their way in and out of the lineup before Schoonover's once-counted-out five walked away from the Green Wave.

Fate sometimes plays an unusual role in problems. In this particular case of a once optimistic pre-season rating to a low of practically nothing, the hand of the unknown turned the knob and let in what Schoonover had sought—desire.

Hillman, Martin, Sydelnik and Gimble are far from the smoothest court specialists around. But they have what many potential stars never attain—intestinal fortitude and the will-to-win.

COTTON BOWL

TWO OF THE NATION'S TOP QUARTERBACKS, Tom Forrestal of Navy, and King Hill of Rice, who drew the most votes in the All-America team balloting for that position, hook up in an aerial duel in the Cotton Bowl contest at Dallas, Tex., New Year's Day. Navy's season record was 8-1-1 and Rice finished with 7-3. Each team met one common opponent, Duke.

1st Title Tilt Since '35 For Layne-Lions

DETROIT, Dec. 27 (AP)—For the first time since 1935 the Detroit Lions will be moving into a championship game Sunday without Bobby Layne at quarterback.

The venerable Layne, of course, hasn't been around the National Football League that long. But that year was the last the Lions made it into a playoff until after the blond Texan joined them in 1950.

Layne, a 10-year veteran of the league, will be in the press box when the Lions move against the Cleveland Browns for the NFL championship Sunday.

Against this same Cleveland team three weeks ago he suffered a broken ankle when tackled while trying to pass in the second quarter. Tobin Rote, acquired from Green Bay in an off-season trade, stepped into the quarterback job fulltime at that point and the Lions won 20-7.

In the following critical games that brought them into the title playoff Rote played brilliantly and guided the Lions to second-half rallies that upset the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers on successive Sundays.

Layne spent the week at his home in Lubbock, Tex., while his teammates polished their offense and defense for the Cleveland game. He flew back to Detroit today.

Like Rote, Layne came to the Lions in an off-season trade. The Lions got him from the old New York Bulldogs for Camp Wilson and cash.

That year the Lions won six and lost six. The next year they were 7-4-1.

In 1952 they won the Western Division championship and trimmed Eastern champion Cleveland 17-7 in the playoff. The next year they won the title and nose Cleveland 17-16 in the playoff. In 1954 they captured the crown and absorbed a 56-10 playoff defeat at the hands of the Browns—a game and score that still is emblazoned on the minds of the Lions and of late on the blackboard in their dressing room.

Rote, a balding Texan who played his college football at Rice Institute in Houston, spent most of the season alternating with Layne. If Rote showed signs of having an exceptional day, Rote played. The same held for Layne.

GWU Athlete Inked By Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today the signing of Raymond M. Looney, a George Washington University football and baseball star, to a bonus contract.

The Pirates declined to make public the amount of the bonus. Looney, a left-handed hitter and first baseman, will be assigned to the Pirates' Columbus team in the International League. He will report to the Columbus training camp at Jacksonville Beach, Fla., next spring.

Looney, 21, of Glassport, Pa., was first-string quarterback at George Washington three years.

Reward in the coaching field comes to very few. Fortunately Schoonover got his "trophy" the night of Dec. 20 when a group of boys decided that "a little something extra" goes a long way in determining a winner and a loser.

On TV At 5 P.M.

Unheralded QBs To Match Wits In East-West Clash

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27 (AP)—Two unheralded quarterbacks lead star-studded football squads into tomorrow's 33rd annual East-West game before 60,000 fans in Kezar Stadium.

Mickey Trimarki of West Virginia engineers the East's attack with Stanford's Jackie Douglas at the helm of the pro-type West offense.

They're known in their sections, but relative unknowns to most of the nation's collegiate football followers.

Douglas was the last man named originally to the West squad. Trimarki was expected to play behind the Army's Dave Bourland. But the Cadet reported late because of examinations and Mickey stayed ahead.

Unknowns have stolen the thunder from their big name teammates in previous East-West games and these two fellows have the equipment to do it again in this nationally televised contest. The game starts 5 p.m. EST.

With four All-Americans on the roster, Trimarki arrived in the East camp without fanfare. He's proved a clever ball handler who can throw a strong pass. Mickey stands an even six feet and weighs 195.

With Trimarki in the backfield probably will be Jim Pace, Michigan All American who has been battling the flu this week, Michigan State's Walt Kowalczyk and Penn State's Emil Capara.

Coach Rip Engle from Penn State says his team plans a balanced attack.

Sure to Pass
Coach Jack Curtice of the West, whose Utah team was the top collegiate eleven in passing, makes no bones of the fact the West will go wide and high to get behind the big East line.

Douglas, standing 5-10 and tipping the scales at 178, could be just the man for the job. He can both pass and run. Succeeding to a line of great Stanford quarterbacks that included Frankie Albert, Gary Kerkorian, Bobby Garrett and John Brodie, the little Douglas proved he could move with the best of them.

Joe Bedenk, veteran Penn State coach, believes college baseball has much to gain from the proposal to extend the school year to a full 12 months.

"If the colleges go on a 12-month schedule," Bedenk points out, "it would make it possible to start baseball a little later in the Spring and then play through the summer months."

Bedenk recalled that his own teams, as well as others in the North, often are unable to play full schedules in the Spring because of wet and cold weather.

"It would be wonderful," he added, "if all colleges went on a 12-month basis and extended their baseball schedule through the summer."

Penn State played summer baseball on a limited basis during World War II, when Army, Navy and Marine trainees went to school through the summer and participated in intercollegiate sports.

Hershey 'Line' Set For Reds

HERSHEY, Pa.—With his "big" line of Willie Marshall, Dunc Fisher and Obie O'Brien clicking for 17 goals in the last eight games, coach Frank Mathers, of the Hershey Bears is looking forward confidently to tonight's fracas with the Providence Reds at the Sports Arena. Face-off will be at 8 p.m.

Fisher has wielded the most potent stick, firing nine goals, including the three-goal "Hat" trick against the Reds a week ago to give the Bears a 5-4 overtime victory. In addition, Dunc has registered nine assists during the same span of games.

Point-wise it is Marshall who is showing his heels not only to his teammates but the rest of the American Hockey League as well. Willie has potted six goals and amassed 14 assists for a grand total of 20 points.

All-Americas On Review

3-Tilt Card Opens Finale Of Grid Year

FIVE All-America football players will perform Saturday as a three-game program moves the year-end bowl season into high gear.

John Crow, All-America back and Heisman Award winner, leads his favored Texas A & M mates against Tennessee before 42,000 in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Tackles Alex Karras of Iowa and Lou Michaels of Kentucky, end Jim Phillips of Auburn and back Jim Pace of Michigan give the East a four-man All-America punch in the 33rd East-West Shrine charity game. About 60,000 will watch at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

Coach Andy Pilney (Tulane) of the Gray team counts on Ken Ford, Hardin-Simmons passer, to throw over the heads of the Blue team, dominated by Big 10 players, in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., where 21,500 will gather.

Aggies Favored
The Texas Aggies are favored by 2½ points, a drop from the earlier figure, the East by nine and the South by one point.

Network radio and television will bring the three games into your living room. NBC starts with the Blue-Gray at 1:45 p.m. (EST) and moves to the East-West at 4:45 p.m. (EST). CBS will carry the Gator Bowl clash of Tennessee (7-3) and Texas Aggies (8-2) at 1:45 p.m. (EST).

Pro Title Clash
The big professional championship game will be played Sunday with the Cleveland Browns facing the Detroit Lions at Detroit (NBC at 1:45 p.m. (EST) for the National Football League title.

Sunday also is the date of the Satellite Bowl game in Cocoa, Fla. between Ft. Dix (NJ) (9-0) and Ft. Carson (Colo.) (7-3) at 2:15 p.m. (EST).

Seven games will be played New Year's Day when about 380,000 fans will send the five-day football attendance well over the 500,000 mark.

In Wednesday games, Ohio State (8-1) is favored by 19 over Oregon (7-3) in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif. And Navy (8-1) by one point over Rice (7-3) in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. Oklahoma (9-1) is expected to whip Duke (6-2-2) by 10 points in the Orange Bowl at Miami and Mississippi (8-1-1) is a two-point choice over Texas (6-3-1) in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. NBC will carry the Sugar and Rose, CBS the orange and Cotton.

Other Games
Other Wednesday games include the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla. the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex. and the Prairie View Bowl at Houston, Tex. They'll keep on playing bowl games in various parts of the world until the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala. Jan. 11 and the Pro Bowl Game, Jan. 12, at Los Angeles.

Crow and his Texas Aggies looked like a sure thing for the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl until they bogged down in late season. After winning eight in a row, the Aggies bowed to Rice 7-6 and Texas 9-7. They were ranked No. 9 in the final AP poll. Since they closed their season, the Aggies have lost their coach, Bear Bryant, who accepted a bid from Alabama. Bryant, however, will be in charge of the team in the Gator Bowl.

Tennessee, a single wing team coached by Bowden Wyatt, bowed to Auburn, the national champions, 7-0. Mississippi 14-7 and Kentucky 20-6. The Vols' attack is based on tailback Bobby Gordon, a triple threat man who uses the quick kick to great advantage.

East's Backfield
In San Francisco, the East has a solid running attack with Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State, Emil Capara of Penn State and Pace in the backfield. Mickey Trimarki of West Virginia and Dave Bourland of Army are the quarterbacks.

The West stars count heavily on Jackie Douglas of Stanford, an accomplished pro-style passer and Stu Vaughn of Utah, the nation's top pass catcher. Jack Curtice of Utah will coach the West. The East squad will be handled by Rip Engle of Penn State.

At Montgomery, the Gray is expected to go to the air with Ford doing the chucking. He completed 115 of 205 for 1,254 yards during the regular season at Hardin-Simmons. Jimmy Orr of Georgia and Phil King of Vanderbilt provide the running attack.

The Blue team also has a good passer in Bobby Cox of Minnesota and talented receivers in Tony Kolodziej of Michigan State and Ed Cooke of Maryland.

Dick Christy of North Carolina State carried the ball 348 times during his varsity football career. He gained a net of 1,817 yards.

Ron Steiner of Wisconsin turned in the longest scoring play of the Big Ten football season during 1957. He intercepted a pass against West Virginia and went 94 yards.

Sends Out Feelers

PIAA Seeks Sentiments On Shorter Football Season

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Assn. sent out feelers today on the question of a shorter high school football season.

The question is one of two that would involve constitutional changes and could not be put into effect until 1959. They were taken up at a meeting of the board of control, the association's governing body.

Mark Funk, PIAA executive secretary, said the board told chairmen of the 12 PIAA districts to sound out the sentiments of the district committees on the proposal.

Take Stand
The chairmen were also urged, Funk said, to ask their committees to take a position on another question involving constitutional change—that of limiting the number of games a PIAA-member high school football team could play in a season.

The association's constitution now reads that high school football squads may begin training Aug. 17, start the season three weeks later, and play an unlimited number of games until Jan. 1.

The weakness of these provisions, Funk said, were made apparent by the fall's influenza epidemic.

Cancel Games
"Many squads," he said, "found themselves cancelling games or playing them right into late December." The long season, he added, may be objected to on the further ground that it conflicts with the basketball season.

Some PIAA basketball team schedules begin as early as Nov. 22, although these are non-league games.

Funk said the proposals could not be put to a vote until the next annual meeting, which will be in December, 1958. If approved, the constitutional changes would go into effect in the fall of 1959 at the earliest.

In other board business, PIAA President H. D. Leberman of Erie and Vice President Howard F. C. Thomas of Great Bend (Susquehanna County) were reelected to one-year terms.

Miners, Barons In Top Clash

KINGSTON—One of the biggest games of the Eastern League basketball season will be played tonight at 8:30 in the Kingston Armory as the Scranton Miners oppose the Wilkes-Barre Barons. The shoe industries of northeastern Pennsylvania is sponsoring the special Booster Night.

Wilkes-Barre might vault into first place in the league by topping their arch-rivals from Lackawanna County. Much depends on the results of weekend games involving Sunbury and Easton. Coach Eddie White's Barons handed Scranton a 112-101 beating at Scranton last Saturday night in one of the big upsets of the year.

The Barons will rely on the great shooting of Larry Hennessey, leading scorer in the league with an average of 31.7 points per contest. In the first game with Scranton, Hennessey made 39 points to spark the victory. The Miners are sure to concentrate their defenses in an effort to stop the former Villanova flash.

4 Kaydets Make State 'Eleven'

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa.—Army, with four representatives, dominated the Penn State all-opponent football team of 1957. Cadets named to the all-star eleven were Jim Kernan, center; Stan Slater, guard; Bill Melnick, tackle; and Bob Anderson, halfback.

Only Slater had a fight on his hands as he finished in a dead heat with Joe Nicely, of West Virginia, for the second guard berth. No. 1 guard in the three-way finish was Jim Healy, Holy Cross.

Other selections were Dick Scherer, Pitt, and Dick Lasse, Syracuse, ends; Jim McCusker, Pitt, tackle; and backs Tom Greene, Holy Cross; Phil King, Vanderbilt; and Ed Coffin, Syracuse.

Hagan's 3 Spree Hawks' Margin

CINCINNATI, Dec. 27 (AP)—Cliff Hagan sank three points in the last 38 seconds of play tonight to give the St. Louis Hawks a 97-96 National Basketball Assn. victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

Stroudsburg Plays For 3rd Place Today

STROUDSBURG HIGH will shoot for consolation honors in the Quakertown Invitational Basketball Tournament today. The Mountaineers will meet host Quakertown in the first game of the twin bill which will decide third place in the Bucks County court classic. Game time for the Stroudsburg and Quakers game is 7:45 p.m.

In the nighttime, starting at 9 p.m., Catsaqua and Southern Lehigh will battle it out for tournament laurels. Catty dumped Stroudsburg, and Southern Lehigh bested Quakertown in the opening games Thursday night.

The Mountaineers, in the throes of a three-game losing streak following a four-tilt win skein, will probably start Ted Williams, its 23-point per game shotman at center, Tom Gross and Tod Williams at forwards and Dick Everett and Leo Fralley, guards.

Baylor Lives Up To Raves In Festival

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Elgin Baylor, Seattle's 6-6 star, is living up to his advance notices in the Holiday Basketball Festival at Madison Square Garden.

Baylor scored 34 points and icked up 22 rebounds off the boards last night in Seattle's 87-83 victory over Connecticut. It was a captivating performance for Baylor who disappointed some of his fans on his last Garden appearance.

In Semi-Finals
Seattle moved into tomorrow night's semifinals with Temple which defeated Pittsburgh 76-71 with Bill Kennedy contributing 22 points. Guy Rodgers, flashy Temple ballhandler, had 11 points although he was off on his shooting.

Dayton's careful possession-minded flyers ousted Manhattan, the defending champions, 58-51, to earn a semifinal pairing with California, a 96-65 winner over New York University. California held Cal Ramsey, NYU's ace, to seven points.

To Face O'Nys
Temple plays Seattle at 7:15 p.m. (EST) and the California-Dayton game is scheduled for 9 p.m. (EST).

Two consolation games will be played tomorrow afternoon. NYU meets Connecticut at 2 p.m. (EST) and Manhattan faces Pitt at 3:45 p.m. (EST).

The finals and the playoff for third and fourth place will be held Monday night. Two other consolation games will be played Monday afternoon.

More Tips For The Ladies

MORE TIPS for the ladies—and of course the tips apply as well to men. They come from Mrs. Esther Ryan, a leading Milwaukee strike speller for more than 25 years, who now gives quite a bit of time to teaching future greats.

Mrs. Ryan's routine with girls begins by holding the ball well above the waist—with push-away action putting the ball into swing.

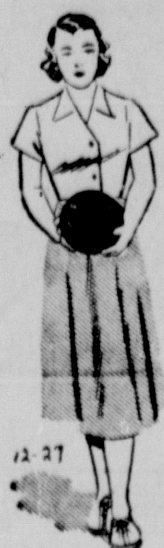

"That doesn't necessarily hold true with more mature persons," says Mrs. Ryan. "The stronger ones, that is. They might try holding the ball waist-high (see sketch) to get enough push-away."

But with all women beginners, Mrs. Ryan suggests extending the left foot, as sketch shows, to insure body balance. The starting position is erect, shoulders squared.

"Four-step forward is easiest to adopt," Mrs. Ryan says. "With it, you feel better balanced; and with the left foot slightly advanced, you're in better position to keep the stride in straight line."

Hold In Palm

Whether you hold the ball high, midway between waist and shoulders, or hold it at waist height, as sketch shows, be sure that it's held in the palm of the left hand. Only then will you be able to hold it securely during the push-away movement—the movement outward, toward the pins. Hold the ball on the side and you're almost sure to drop it.

12-27

And only by palming it will you be able to push it straight ahead, into a constant swinging groove. Feel that the body weight rests entirely on the right foot in the starting position, and you'll be relaxed.

More important, though, you'll not be inclined to rush into stride.

Wolfpack Gains Finals

RALEIGH, N.C., Dec. 27 (AP)—John Richter dropped in a goal with 23 seconds left to play to give North Carolina State a thrilling 63-61 win over Wake Forest, and move the Wolfpack into the championship finals of the Dixie Basketball Classic. A cheering crowd of 12,400 saw the semi-finals game in Reynolds Coliseum.

In an earlier consolation semi-finals game, Northwestern came back from an 11-point deficit and defeated Duquesne, 80-70.

N.C. State, employing a fast pressing game, moved ahead by 11 points in the first half, only to see the scrappy Demon Deacons force back and take the lead by 43-42 with 15:12 left to play.

Led Until 1:33

Wake Forest, which had a shooting percentage of 51.3, maintained the lead until 1:33, when Captain

Whitey Bell hit on a shot to send N.C. State out front, 60-59. With 40 seconds remaining, George Richie sank a two-pointed for the Deacons. Then, Richter dropped in the goal which proved decisive.

Northwestern, beaten by N.C. State in the opening round yesterday, trailed by 23 to 12 midway of the first half. Then the Big Ten team began hitting the basket and controlling the back boards to come back and gain a 37 to 33 halftime margin over Duquesne.

In the second half, Northwestern cut loose with a terrific basket barrage to build up a 23-point spread before Duquesne suddenly got hot and narrowed the margin to eight points shortly before the buzzer.

Joe Ruklick and Floyd Campbell led Northwestern with 19 and 18 points respectively.

3 Escaped Convicts Held Family Captive

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth in a series of 12 "Year End" stories to appear in the Daily Record over the next three weeks. This series deals with the top news stories of 1957 on the month by month basis.

By Leonard Randolph
THREE ESCAPED convicts chose a Beaver Valley home as a hideout for four hours; kept a family with children in the home with them.

State Council of Civil Defense approved funds totaling $2,776.47 for flood control on the Broadheads.

The Keystone Shortway bounced back and forth on front pages with regularity. The drive was on "in earnest" to get Federal approval for its inclusion as part of the interstate highways network.

We had nine inches of snow right in the middle of "Spring." These were some of the highlights of April. It was a month filled with spot news. But it was also a month of solemnity—for it was the season of Lent, a time of penitence and sorrow for Christians.

The month opened with an accent on modern life and progress. Formal dedication of the Northeast Extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike was performed on the first day. The extension made it possible, for the first time in history, for motorists to travel from the Ohio line to the Pocono Mountains directly.

Announcing its appropriation for Broadheads Creek flood control, the CD Council in Harrisburg outlined preliminary plans which called for 3,700 feet of levees, more than 500 feet of concrete wall, a pumping station and major channel clearance activity. Needed for the project: cooperation of boroughs in securing rights-of-way for test borings and, later, for actual construction. The proposed project continued to make news throughout the year.

On the education scene in Monroe County: Pleasant Valley Jointure was formed again after an unsuccessful first try two years before. Clyde Dietrich, Chestnut Hill, who had worked long and hard to get the jointure going again, was duly named director. Stroud Union School directors said they had decided against efforts to occupy the Arlington Heights building following Easter recess. Reason: the building would still not be completed. The Union board also refused to draw up and approve its tentative budget. Reason: "We have no idea what course the State Legislature will take" on school subsidies and the like.

At a special meeting two weeks later, however, the board "tentatively received" a budget of $898,240 which would call for $5 mills per $1,000 assessed value on real property and two $5 per capita taxes. The millage rate was 10 higher than the previous year. The budget session was odd in a couple of ways. First of all board members weren't satisfied with calling it a "tentative budget." They also had to say that it was "tentatively received" and not "tentatively approved," the language generally used in such cases. But the board insisted that that's the way it had to be—tentatively, at least.

East Stroudsburg Area High School won top honors in State forensics eliminations at Bethlehem: John Burrus was given a superior rating as a tuba soloist and the school band, directed by Clement Wiedmeyer, won its seventh Class B school championship—one of the most honored schools in State history where instrumental music was concerned.

In honor of an old, if unnecessary, tradition, the second graders at Morey School turned out their own ideas on Easter "bonnets." They were made of pie plates, blobs of motheaten was fruits, green vines and miscellaneous items. But some of them looked better than "Mr. John's" latest creations, we thought. Even the one with the over-price banana.

Fanfare for the Keystone Shortway moved out of the propaganda phase and into a period of hard work. Bertram Tallamy, chief of the Federal Bureau of Roads, said on April 3 that a decision was "expected soon" on inclusion of the road in the interstate system. Rep. Walter urged acceptance of the plans in Washington. On April 16, Congressmen from districts along the proposed route attended a meeting in the nation's capitol at the invitation of Tallamy.

Out of that meeting came a blast from Rep. Clark of Erie, to the effect that Tallamy (who is a New Yorker) was trying to divert the Shortway route to New York State Z. H. Confair, president of the Shortway Association, lashed out at Rep. Clark the following day; said it wasn't so. Confair made a local appearance (at the Lions Club) and said the proposed Sharon-Stroudsburg connecting link would mean great growth for the whole State and for this entire area. Pocono Mountains Motor Club joined other groups in writing the Federal Bureau asking approval of the Shortway.

While Shortway boosters took the high road for their goal, the controversy over low roads went on. Rep. Cleveland, East Stroudsburg, charged the State Highways Department had "turned its back on Monroe County" since the Diane flood 19 months before.

Highways Department officials said they would give "full consideration" to an alternate proposal for the Stroudsburgs Thruway submitted by a local group of citizens. Later in the month Gen. George Richards, deputy highways secretary, called the committee's "Plan F" an "old chestnut," said it would throw a "Chinese Wall up between the Stroudsburgs and Stroud Township."

News literally "piled up" on April 4. Nine inches of snow hit Monroe County, put cars on the skids for a while and kept residents busy shoveling drifts from their driveways, sidewalks and autos. During the next two days the Spring rains came (and about time) and washed it all away.

Central Labor Union members had some heartening news during the month. Settling out to find out whether public sentiment favored consolidation of East Stroudsburg, and Stroudsburg, CLU workers put petitions in circulation and came up with more than 400 names in a matter of days. They got some help on official and semi-official levels, too. Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce voted to support the CLU. Councils in both boroughs said that—although there might be several problems to be ironed out—they would favor consolidation if the people wanted it that way.

April 8 dawned like any other day. Before nightfall, however, State police were at the center of one of the most tense and potentially tragic manhunts in Northeast Pennsylvania history. It happened quickly. And most people did not know what was happening until the following day.

On Sunday night (April 7) three men escaped from Rockview State Penitentiary. Early the next morning local State police were alerted that the men were headed toward this region. Late that afternoon the men appeared at the Beaver Valley home of Mrs. Hilda Rundle. They left once, came back again. Throughout both "visits" they displayed little caution. Mrs. Rundle was allowed one to go "out to the mailbox." She went, instead, to the home of a neighbor and called her brother. The brother, in turn, told State police that the men were at the home.

Mrs. Rundle had no idea, at first, she told police, that the men were convicts or fugitives. As darkness fell, the three men kept the woman, her children and other relatives in the house. When State police arrived they threw a partial cordon up around the house. But police were faced with a problem which needed rational planning. The slightest false move, the first hint of violence, might mean injury or death—for Mrs. Rundle and her children. All three of the convicts were armed.

An approaching car frightened one of the men. He "made a break" and disappeared into the woods surrounding the home. Then troopers broke into the home. They captured the remaining two—Earl Fehr, 25 and William Richter, 35, without opposition. An hour later they picked up John J. (Jake) Welty, 27, along a country road near the home.

Three Escaped Convicts Made Big News In April

Before midnight all three men were behind bars at Monroe County Jail. The following day, troopers turned them over to Corrections Bureau officials for the return trip to Rockview. For local State troopers it was a brilliant example of teamwork and execution of duty.

Thirty years of duty as a fireman in Delaware Water Gap came to an end for Fred Decker. Decker handed in his uniform, hung up his fireman's hat for the last time and retired as borough fire chief. James Anthony was chosen to succeed him. For Decker the long road of public service in his borough was still not at an end, however. He was still the borough's police chief, a job he had also held for many years.

Over at Radio Station WVPO the appointment of Joe Whalen to the position of program director was announced. Whalen had served as head of the sports department at the local station for some time. He succeeded Joe Webster who was busy opening his own business, but would continue as part-time station announcer.

There was a national crisis in the national postal system in April. Postmaster General Summerfield complained to Congress that he didn't have enough money to run the old stand in the manner to which we had become accustomed. Congress wanted more information, like why Summerfield hadn't asked for a large enough appropriation in the first place. Summerfield countered with a threat to shut down the nation's post offices on Saturdays if the senators and representatives didn't do what he wanted them to.

On Saturday, April 13, as a result, there was no mail delivery in this area. Offices were closed. Mail clerks found themselves virtually snowed under by questions and people who wanted to mail things before they lost their chance on the weekend.

Two deaths caught the attention of readers during the month. One came violently: to Barrett Township's Warren Freeland Seese, at 21, the victim of an auto accident in which his car was rammed into a tree off the road on April 14.

For one second, death came as a final door of light at the end of a life of darkness. His name was Ferdinand Pugh. He was 85 when he died in General Hospital. He had been blind 72 of those years.

Residents of Bushkill and Lehman Township took up a new parlor (shell) game. Tormented by uncertainty ever since the 1955 flood had brought plans for a Delaware River dam somewhere in their vicinity, property owners there heard that State-appointed appraisers were measuring lands of more than 60 local residents. They were, in general, persons who had previously said they would be interested in selling out without waiting. The game was a "will they, won't they" proposition. Rumors ran rampant throughout the area: "So and so sold last week." But not actual payments had been made. And the appraising was only a necessary step toward eventual State purchase of land it might need for the dam—wherever it happened to be located when the Corps of Engineers finished its survey.

Members of the staff of "Stroud Courier", the student newspaper at State Teachers College, paid homage to the college president, Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler and to Dean of Instruction Dr. Francis McGarry. The occasion: annual dinner of the newspaper staff at Marshalls Creek.

Fishing season opened on April 15. It was colder than a left-over cod-cake. Things were tough in the streams. No fish. At least not biting.

Johnny Eaton (officially John Charles Eaton, Princeton University reminded us) won a national Woodrow Wilson fellowship to continue his studies in music composition at that august institution. It was one of the greatest honors in an academic career which was liberally sprinkled with them. Eaton was working on an opera. And to keep things humming along, he was also recording modern jazz for Columbia Records.

Chamber of Commerce officials put out a brochure all about the Poconos. It was prepared from information assembled by Dr. Earl Strong, Penn State. Among other things, the Strong report said that industry was stronger than ever in the area. The Chamber said it would use the book to arouse interest in other industries looking for the best place to locate.

Two youngsters gave us pause during the month—one local, the other an out-of-state resident of most local living rooms. Hereabouts the boy was eight-year-old Ricky Barrow of East Stroudsburg. Ricky found a fossil which turned out to be a 300,000,000-year-old trilobite. Museum of Natural History experts in New York studied the thing and said it was a perfect specimen from the Cambrian era of the Paleozoic epoch. Ricky said they could have it if they wanted it. They did.

Up in quaint old New York City on rustic old television a modest young mental giant named Robert Strom decided to go home with a measly $192,000 and take himself off the TV quiz show on which he'd earned it. Bob said he could have gone on forever, but the strain was too rough on dear old mom and dad. We didn't blame them. It was almost too much for us, too.

As Easter Sunday came, The Daily Record brought to a close its special contributions to the Lenten season. Local clergymen had been invited to write and submit a series of Lenten meditations. They were published, daily, during the five weeks before Easter. Our second contribution: a 14-chapter series of articles on "The Way of the Cross", written from the minds of those who had lived through Christ's last days with Him.

More Than 3,000,000 In Colleges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP)—A record 3,068,000 students enrolled in colleges and universities early in the fall and the total is expected to swell to 3,450,000.

Reporting this today, the Office of Education said an enrollment record has been set annually for six straight years, with last fall's total 45 per cent above the fall of 1951.

The report covered 1,890 colleges and universities, where fall enrollments were up 4.1 per cent over the 2,947,000 listed in the fall of 1956.

Lawrence G. Derthick, commissioner of education, noted that the 45 per cent increase in college enrollments since 1951 compares with an increase of only about 2 per cent during the same period in the number of persons 18 to 21 years of age.

Further Climb
He added that the unprecedented increase in births during the 1940s means that the number of college-age persons in the population will start to climb steeply in the early 1960s.

The commissioner also put in a plug for the federal aid to education program now being developed which includes provision for scholarships.

Freshman enrollment in the colleges and universities set a record at 730,000 last fall, up 0.9 per cent from 1956.

Nearly two-thirds of the students are men.

The University of California, counting all campuses, reported the largest enrollment in the nation, at 41,586.

The University of Minnesota for all campuses reported 35,852; New York University 31,068; State University of New York for all campuses except the agricultural and technical institutes 29,883; City College of the City of New York 28,181; Columbia University 26,787; University of Michigan 26,370; University of Illinois 25,920; University of Wisconsin for all campuses 24,873; and Ohio State University 22,611.

Big Increase
Liberal arts colleges showed the biggest fall enrollment increase as compared with 1956, a gain of 6.5 per cent. Junior colleges gained by 6.2 per cent, technological schools by 3.4 per cent, and separately organized professional schools other than teachers colleges and technological schools by 3.3 per cent.

Universities increased by only 2 per cent, and their first-time students decreased by 2.9 per cent.

Technological schools had a decrease in first-time students, by 0.6 per cent.

Greatest increase in first-time students was in the separately organized professional schools which gained by 9 per cent. Teacher colleges had 4.4 per cent more first-time students; junior colleges 2.9 per cent more; technological and religious schools 2.5 per cent more; and liberal arts colleges 2.4 per cent more.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 28, 1957
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A day for careful scrutiny in all important matters. Be circumspect, duly conservative. A certain amount of aggressiveness will be needed, however.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Next free if returns for your efforts aren't big or immediate now. Where duties permit, relax, review recent work; exercise some talent.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—You in the service of the government, in the armed forces, in any undertaking that requires vigor, determination and stamina are favored. Be careful in making important decisions, in giving advice to others.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You can make good advancement in familiar matters now. Where responsibilities permit, make time for rest, diversion. Avoid worry.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Strong warnings now. Don't go to extremes and don't waste time on worthless activities. Be sensible; wait for the best.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Some caution needed here, too, keep to the middle road in all things. Use your logic and good sense, and you will make any wrong move.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Similar indications to Taurus now. Don't overdo, but tackle regular duties quietly. Set aside tasks that can wait until later, if it isn't necessary to rush and crowd every day.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Your planet Mars is the only one in truly auspicious position now. Vigorous rays should stimulate your endeavors, encourage you to make fine headway.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—An excellent Jupiter aspect on Sunday suggests that you finish incomplete matters and make plans for new projects NOW. Have some fun, too.
December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—A good day for reviewing, also for acting upon past decisions and appraisals. Neither be too set in your ways, nor easily led, but do go straight ahead toward worthwhile goals.
January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Enthusiasm is a "must" if you would gain benefits today. Be alert to the fact that others are reaching for the same goals as you—and trying hard.

MILLARD DUNLAP, Delaware Water Gap, is shown with quartz-like stone given to him yesterday by Russell Minich, Reeder. The latter found it near the foot of Big Pocono Mountain 20 years ago.

Quartz-Like Object Given To Delaware Water Gap Man

ABOUT 20 YEARS AGO, Russell Minich went rabbit hunting on his farm just south of the foot of Big Pocono Mountain.

His attention was attracted to something partly hidden by leaves which was reflecting the bright rays of the sun in a variety of colors.

Investigating, Minich uncovered a heavy, crystal-clear object measuring about 18 inches at its widest point and 15 inches elsewhere.

Minich, who now lives at Reeder's, said he never learned exactly what the object is, although a number of people have described it as quartz.

Gift To Friend
Yesterday, Millard Dunlap of Delaware Water Gap was at Minich's home and expressed an interest in the "stone." Minich was glad to turn it over to Dunlap, who remarked that he would find someone who could tell what it is.

Minich said he had found similar pieces on the farm, but none nearly so large as the one he came across some 20 years ago.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 50 cents to $154.30 with the industrials down 80 cents, the rails down $1.10 and the utilities up 30 cents.

New Lows

Alcoholism's Prevention Held Possible

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 27 (AP)—

With sufficient further research efforts by more scientists, it appears possible to prevent alcoholism "in the near future," by nutritional means, a Texas researcher said today.

Dr. Roger J. Williams of the University of Texas, long an advocate of a "nutritional approach" to coping with alcoholism, declared in a report prepared for the 124th meeting of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science:

"If there is an exercise of reasonable diligence, scientists should be able within a very few years to put into the hands of the public the tools whereby alcoholism, said to be our fourth most important disease, can be effectively prevented.

Near Future
"Both the detection and treatment of alcoholism-prone individuals appear to be possible in the near future."

Dr. Williams declared that, in the past, progress against alcoholism "has been hampered by those who are sure that alcoholism is merely a 'psychological' disease, and have therefore neglected the physiological and biochemical aspects."

"Anatomy, physiology, biochemistry and psychology are all intertwined in the disease," he said.

Declaring there is "a very substantial basis" for his optimism about future possibilities, Williams offered these points:

1. Over the last decade extensive animal and human research by workers in his laboratories "has pointed to crucial differences which make an individual alcoholism-prone."

"These differences," he said, "relate to the appetite-regulating cells and tissues in our brains which in some individuals, due to inadequate nutrition, are highly susceptible to alcohol poisoning."

Complete nourishment always makes cells and tissues more resistant to poisoning, and this is the remedial route which is clearly indicated.

2. In "many" individual instances, in the experience of his laboratories, the alcoholic craving "has, as if by miracle, been completely abolished" by the use of nutritional supplements.

But Williams indicated his belief that the specific nutritional needs would vary among alcoholics.

3. Progress has been made by Williams and his associates "toward detecting alcoholism-prone individuals before they become alcoholics" by means of studies of blood characteristics and of blood and urine chemistry.
